
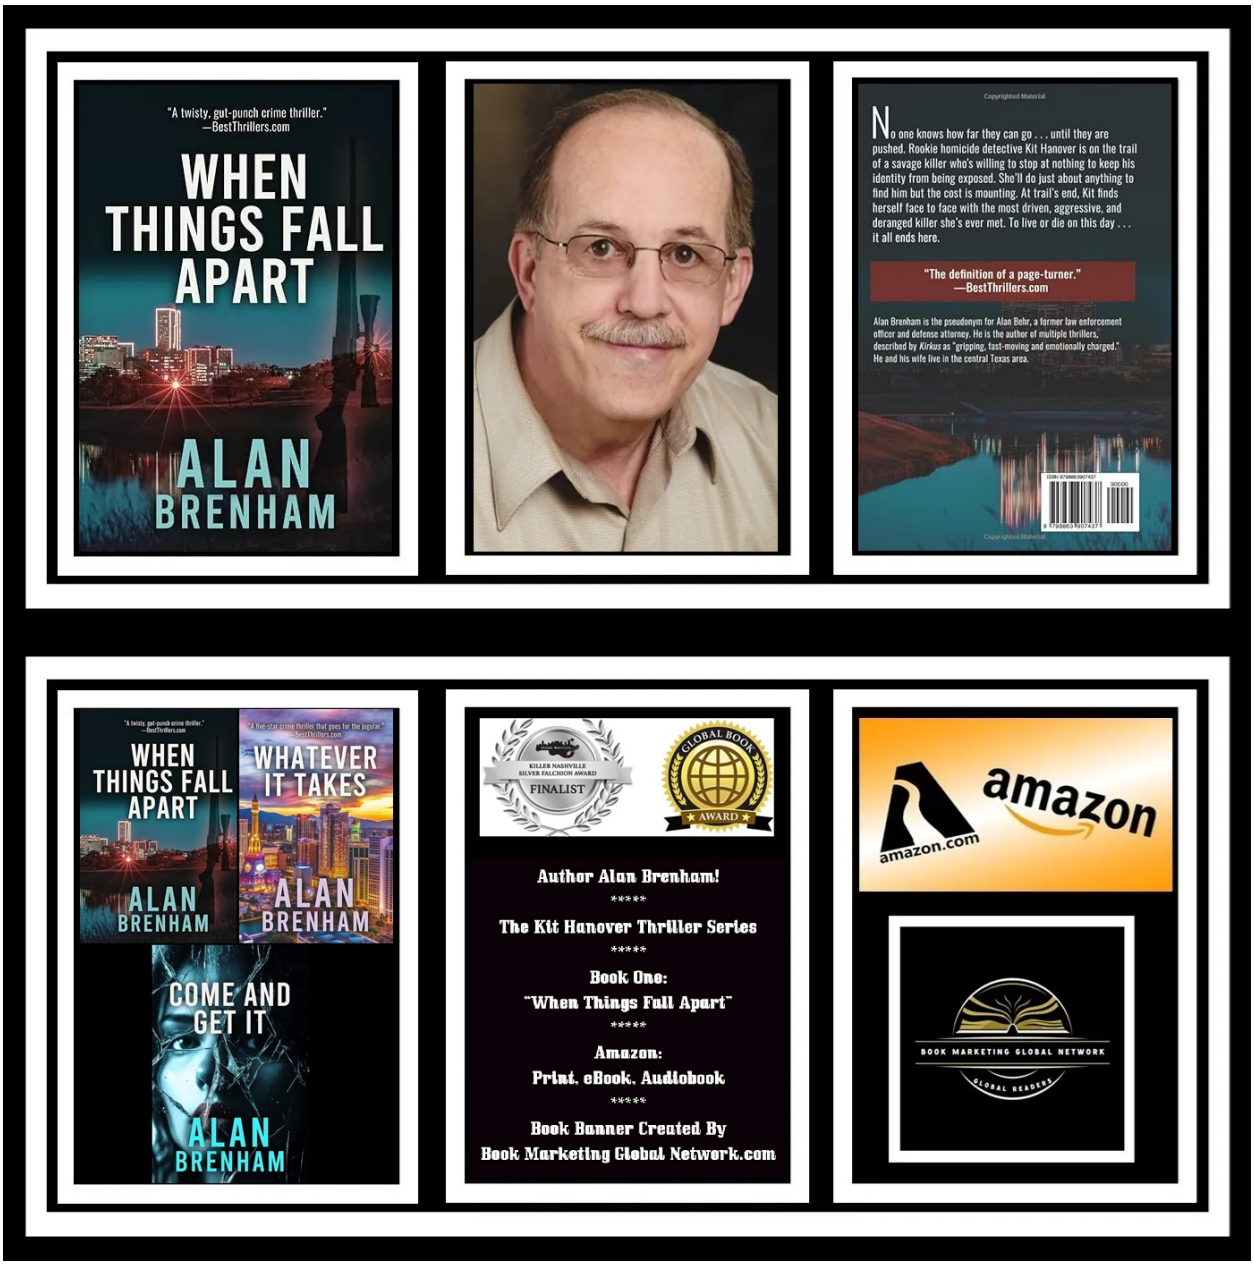
The Kit Hanover Thriller Series by Alan Brenham.



When Things Fall Apart (Book 1) by Alan Brenham.

Newly minted homicide detective Kit Hanover is paired with a crusty veteran who makes no bones about his feelings for Native Americans. Their prickly partnership becomes more antagonistic when her first murder case proves devastating, and she is reassigned. Determined to work on the case in her own time despite the emotional consequences, she finds herself and her family the target of an unknown madman. She withstands the inexplicable attacks as she continues her investigation until she finds herself face to face with the murderer. Only one of them can survive.

Award: 2024 Silver Falchion Finalist At Killer Nashville For Best Investigator.
Award: 2024 GOLD Winner Of The Global Book Award In Mystery (Detective Category).

Review by Book Excellence: Fresh on the job, Kit Hanover is about to be thrown into the case of her life. What she doesn't expect is for actions to provoke unintended consequences. Murderers like to remain hidden, and Kit has now made herself the target. Trapped between honor and duty, Kit is in for the fight of her life, and survival is anything but guaranteed.

From The Author: It was a good night to kill a lawyer. He looked at the pale blue sky with its runway show of reds, yellows, and oranges. Strips of white clouds intermixed with ribbons of violet. The air was in the upper fifties. Cool enough to make him zip up his black jacket. With a black ski mask pulled over his face and a Sig Sauer nine-millimeter in his hand, he waited against the tall hedge.

His watch showed it to be almost seven o'clock. From past surveillance, he knew the man would be walking out the office door at any minute. He panned the street. Not one car or pedestrian was in sight. The neighborhood seemed eerily quiet, almost as if it was holding its collective breath, waiting and watching what would happen.

About The Author: Alan Brenham is the pseudonym of Alan Behr. He is the author of eleven published novels which have received numerous awards. Several of these novels have been translated into foreign languages.

Alan was born in Delhi, New York. After completing high school in Maryland, he attended Texas A&I University, graduating with a Bachelor of Arts in sociology and biology. After college, he spent several years in law enforcement as a US Treasury Special Agent which included duty as a Special Deputy US Marshal. That assignment took him to several European cities from London to St. Petersburg, Russia, as well as Middle Eastern meccas of Istanbul, Beirut and Tehran.

Alan later served as a detective with the Temple, Texas, Police Department. He took a sabbatical from the police, spending two years as a law enforcement instructor for the US Armed Forces in West Berlin. During his time in Germany, he won a gold medal in an Army-sponsored international pistol competition—an achievement he credits to the extraordinary firearms training he received from the US Secret Service.

In 1987, Alan graduated from Baylor University School of Law and was admitted to the Texas State Bar that same year. He spent the next twenty-four years in an active practice of law, first as a prosecutor then as a criminal defense attorney. He turned to writing fiction in 2010 and is currently working on his next novel.

Alan and his wife, Lillian, live in Texas. Together, they've traveled to the Caribbean and Alaska. When not writing or traveling, Alan enjoys reading thriller novels and watching football. He is a member of the International Thriller Writers, the Mystery Writers of America, and the International Association of Crime Writers.
