

A Love Story To Remember by Linda Diane Wattley

'A Love Story to Remember' reveals the intrinsic realities of our need to love and be loved.

There is something about hearing the words, 'I love you' that enriches our lives even though its meaning is endless.

Leona Tillard, a soldier of the United States Army, woke up one day drowning in the sea of love. 'I love you' ruled her life.

She knows God loves her, but she does not know who He has chosen for her to love.

Sometimes God speaks through others to reveal answers we seek. Are you chosen to reveal her true love?

5 Star Review: Leona Tillard joined the Army so she wouldn't be a burden on her parents. She knew giving the Army three years of her life would be an escape from memories of her past and a challenge that would stretch her physically, emotionally and spiritually. Was she ready?

I arrived at Fort McClellan, Alabama early in the morning. It was more than 90 degrees outside. As I stepped off the bus, the first thing I noticed was how clean it was. There wasn't a scrap of trash anywhere.

Every single person there, except for us, the new arrivals had on Army green fatigues. The entire group was ordered to line up so each one of us could be accounted for. Considering there were over two hundred of us it took a while. There were very few males; females seemed to dominate the base.

After we were checked in, we lined up and received our duffle bags and other army stuff I had no clue what to do with it. After issuing us the heavy green duffle bags, we were given our unit assignment. I was assigned, along with thirty-nine other women, to Charlie Company. The others were assigned to Alpha, Bravo, Delta, and Fox Trot Companies.

“All right, soldiers, line up in two’s and follow me,” shouted Drill Sergeant Dunlap.

We followed our leader to our barracks. Her uniform fitted her like a glove, and it was obvious she didn’t take any mess. Our over-packed duffle bags were slung awkwardly on our backs, while we carried our personal belongings in our arms. By the time we made it to our new home we were all sweating and panting from the long walk.

Inside the long room there were two bays, each with two rows of bunks. The first instruction we were given was to make up the disheveled bed we would be using for the next eight weeks. All of us were exhausted. Some girls just burst out crying and started saying they wanted to go home. We were subjected to over an hour of needless torture and mind games ranging from, how to correctly fold a shirt to how to wax a floor with a sanitary napkin on our hands and knees.

Basic training was an experience I will never forget. All forty females in the barracks were awakened at five o’clock in the morning, every morning. We jumped out of bed and had to be in formation by six o’clock. We marched everywhere we went, whether it was the chow hall or to the track to run laps. We were like one big family in green.”

‘A Love Story to Remember’ by Linda Diane Wattley is a fictional love story about life, the need for love, redemption, and personal internal survival. The Author draws from her own experiences as a veteran in the United States Army. Even in this fictional account, Linda demonstrates the inner strength to overcome Post Traumatic Stress Disorder and find a path to recovery.

PTSD To Freedom - Mental & Spiritual Healing: No More War Within by Linda Diane Wattley

When you experience traumatic experiences that alters your emotional and psychological foundation, you begin to experience a very personal and fragile meltdown. While all of this is happening, your body diligently works to save your life. You survived the initial shock, now the aftermath, yes that personal and dreadful aftermath. Now what?

"PTSD to Freedom - No More War Within", will tell you to pick up your bed and walk because you are the captain of your ship.

Authors Linda Diane Wattley and William Sumner are veterans of the United States Army. They teamed up together to write this extraordinary and unique book because they both have a heart for people suffering with PTSD, Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder. It was obvious to them that if the male and female perspectives and resources were joined together that it would have a profound impact on the world. What they offer is powerful because the truths automatically empower the readers. No doubt, the truth will set you free!

Keep in mind, PTSD is no respecter of persons; you, me, a child, soldier, parent, friend, spouse, lover, doctor, judge, police officer, neighbor, and even a minister can be suffering with PTSD. The good news is that it does not have to be a life-sentence. "PTSD to Freedom - No More War Within" is about having complete control of your outcome and allowing your greatest self to shine.

5 Star Review: We owe a debt of gratitude to our United States men and women who serve or have served in our armed forces. This book's contributing authors all served in the United States Army.

I am sure that you are familiar with the term PTSD and perhaps it has wreaked havoc on your life or the life of your family member, friend or acquaintance. Are you familiar with the term PTSG or NLP?

I encourage you to read this book and glean the information that will help you on your journey out of PTSD and give you tools to help others along their journey.

Author Linda Diane Wattley dedicates this book to those of us who face PTSD and fight against the daily war within.

Whether your PTSD comes from a traumatic childhood experience, military service, domestic violence, crime or accident inflicted trauma; Author Linda Diane Wattley writes, speaks and interviews from a heart of knowledge and compassion. Linda reaches out and interviews other PTSD victims from her radio podcast show. She gives daily inspiration on her website titled The Truth Will Set You Free.

I endorse this book PTSD To Freedom (No More War Within) by Linda Diane Wattley as a tool in your mental health toolbox to help you recognize and overcome the icy grip of PTSD. Review by Theodocia Mclean.
