About The Author: While working in a local warehouse, Author David Frosdick found himself maneuvering a pallet labeled Made in Vietnam and the words he had heard so many times as a child growing up in England, 'if only it could talk', popped into his head.

Pete Pallet was born as a loveable character that children can learn from. Other books in the series, such as Pete Pallet's New School and the support song, Clap Away the Nerves have been received well by parents with young children who are about to start school. They are reassured that 'even grown-ups get nervous'. It is David's hope that Pete the Pallet books will encourage kids and help parents teach their children valuable lessons.
