

Jerry Swift and Chiron's Pride

In Kentucky horse country two dimensions touch. A portal is created. High school genius Jerry Swift finds a glowing stone on the side of the road, but the school's star quarterback, Andrew Collins, takes it from him calling him a "real horse's ass" in the process, and throws the stone into a cornfield. Jerry's whole world is changed.

The next night he is awakened when his bed collapses and he finds he is now a centaur. On his quest to get his old life back, Jerry quickly begins navigating two worlds. One is of pure myth where magic and the old Greek gods, goddesses and monsters are frighteningly real. The other is in his own world where he risks all in helping his sister in her equine sport of stadium jumping for her Olympic quest, when her horse becomes seriously injured. However, Jerry and his family are not alone in their search for answers and breaking the curse. True to the old saying, "When the student is ready, the teacher appears", Chiron, centaur teacher of heroes, comes to their aid in an adventure fit for a Homeric epic.

Message From The Author: I'm originally from New Jersey and was raised in a boating family and had all kinds of pets. Both have greatly influenced my writing and art.

My first short story was published at the age of 14 in a national magazine "Popular Dogs". Since then, my work has branched out into writing stage and screenplays some of which have won awards: The Great Mudbug War, That's the Spirit: A Haunting Comedy, Riders of the North Wind, and The Swamp Dragon.

During the same time, I also wrote and had traditionally published novels that include historical fictions: Silver Eagles, a Civil War novel about Ames, Chamberlain and the 20th Maine, The Swamp Dragon, a Civil War fantasy novel, Dark Waters, a maritime novel about the Lusitania disaster, a maritime historical Storm Warning, about the chase, capture, and trial of the only slaver ever hung for piracy, a political comedy, Ghost of a Chance. Most recent books include, The Cat Who Fell to Earth, a first contact science fiction, The 13th Child, a horror that is a different take on the Jersey Devil legend and Arizona Red Ghost, a Western novella based on a true story. All work is traditionally published by royalty publishers. All can be found on Barnes & Nobel, Amazon and from the publishers. Some of my short stories have appeared in anthologies in print and online.

I have done professional artwork since the age of 18. I work in the medias of oils, acrylics, pen and ink, colored pencil, and graphite pencil. Subject matter runs from wildlife paintings and pet portraits to illustration and cartoons. I have won many awards and had work exhibited in galleries including the Smithsonian. My last illustration work was children's book illustrations for Gini Graham Scott of Changemakers.

Presently I live in Fisher, WV. I teach in the local school district where students tell me I am their favorite teacher, and I am a naturalist in the summer at a state park. When teaching I can share my passions especially if my students get their work done on time. Every moment is shared by my two creative passions. I maintain a Facebook page. Nick Korolev Author/Artist is on LinkedIn where interested people can keep track of my creative ventures. I am available for freelance work and commissions in both venues.

Services Offered:

- FREELANCE WRITING: Freelance creative writing from co-writing screenplays to ghostwriting books and everything in between.
- PORTRAITS: Portraits of pets and people on commission.
- ILLUSTRATION: All your illustration needs for book covers or interiors in a variety of styles and media from fine art to cartoons.
