Reading Gives You Wings To Fly!

Reading Age: 18+

These are four tales of the well that is situated on the land of a farmhouse that was inhabited by different families at different times. The realtors who sold the house to these families warned them that they were known to be haunted.

Each family experienced some strange happenings while living here. Some of the inhabitants are not around now to speak of anything that transpired. Some things are unexplainable.

Would you dare live here? What makes this well so unusual? Delve into these tales and find out.

From The Author: I created this collection to finish a short story that was featured in another collection, An Angel Among Us, called The Well. A reader mentioned that she wanted more from the short stories which prompted me to continue this tale in the new book.

I enjoyed creating these stories to complete 'The Well' that I may do some more of these collections to finish other short stories. I hope readers will enjoy this collection.

About The Author: This is the 52nd book I have published!! I am not finished yet! I have been writing since I was a young child but didn't begin publishing my first book until 2013. There are so many stories circling around in my brain that I am compelled to write them down and publish them before they are lost forever. My husband is my support, illustrator and cover creator. I couldn't do all this without him in my corner. I plan to keep writing, publishing and connecting with readers to provide them with entertaining reading. My goal is to encourage all ages to read daily to enhance their health and wellbeing. I love to hear from readers and welcome and appreciate reviews that help spread the word about my books. My website showcases all my books from children to 18+. I write under Janice Spina for children, MG/PT/YA. Happy Reading Everyone!

Awarded 5 Stars By The Editor At Book Marketing Global Network. "Tales Of The Well" by J. E. Spina is a Short Story Collection for ages 18 and up. This book is a continuation from the book "An Angle Among Us". Janice is an amazing storyteller.

THE OLD FARMHOUSE: The old farmhouse sits on sixty acres of beautiful prime farmland. The perfect place to get away, raise a family and have some animals. This land has had some owners over the years. Some say the land is haunted.

THE YOUNG FAMILY: Many years later the farmhouse was sold to another family. The young family couldn't believe their luck finding this beautiful lot for such a low price. The realtor mumbled something about ghosts, but the price was too low to pass up.

THE FAIRY IN THE WELL: Two little girls, Jessica and Sarah, lived on a farm with their mother and father. One day the girls were so busy chasing a butterfly. That is when Sarah suddenly disappeared from Jessica's view.

THE OLD WOMAN: Jessica wasn't as agile as she once was, but she managed to keep her house in order, garden growing, and flowers fed and watered. Her husband did the best he could also. Her children used to talk about a fairy on the land, but she believed it was just their imagination. Since her husband died, there were more unusual things happening.

THE STORY CONTINUES....

TWO: Two days later Savannah and her three boys Nick, Jesse, and Aaron arrived. The boys went right to the TV and turned it on after hugging and kissing their grandmother. Jessica shook her head and said, "I can't believe they love TV that much. I thought they were excited about exploring my yard." Soon the sounds of children's voices echo through the acres and reach the old well.

THREE: Savannah raced through the copse (coppice) as quickly as she could. Branches snapped and scratched at her arms and legs as she pushed them aside. The trees were so thick that there was little light to illuminate the way for her.

She repeatedly called out to her boys, "Where are you, Nick, Jesse, and Aaron? Please come out. You need to return to your grandmother's house right away."

The boys were deep in the woods where the sounds did not carry as they continued to chase the squirrel until it went into its hole in the ground.

FOUR: Who will guard the well for eternity?

This is Janice (J.E.) Spina's 52nd book. She has published three short story collections for ages 18 and up, two mystery series of six books each, one for boys and the other for girls which is enjoyed by both boys and girls, and a fantasy series for young adults. She has published twenty-three stories for young children. I encourage you to purchase Janice Spina's "Jems Books" for Children Of All Ages, Teens, And Young Adults (18+).

Wishes by Janice (J.E.) Spina.
A Short Story Collection.
Reading Age: 18+
'Silver From Mom's Choice Awards'

This is an eclectic short story collection of six stories.

Sometimes the things we wish for in life are not always what they seem. We have good times and bad but try to make the best of it all. There are occasions when we make wishes without thinking.

Like the saying goes, 'Be careful what you wish for.' While other times, things work out for the better, much to our surprise.

This collection will make you think about the next time you make a wish.

Awarded 5 Stars By The Editor At Book Marketing Global Network. I loved this short story collection. This book will cause you to be more mindful when making a wish. Each short story gave me the opportunity to reflect on life, friendships, relationships, the world around us and the supernatural. Let me share my impressions:

THE HOMESTEAD: After 30 + years, Calvin and Amelia had earned the right to retire. They longed to leave the big city and find a peaceful place to live out their lives in safety on a land they could call their own. They didn't expect this!

A TEEN'S LIFE: Marcus was on a downward spiral. His life, his school, and saw no hope for his future. Everything would change when he met Zeus. A wish can be granted in the strangest of ways.

THE MAGICAL PEBBLE: Shiloh was the oldest at sixteen. Her twin brothers were ten and her sister was eight. Circumstances had forced Shiloh to become the sole bread winner of the family. One day, while walking to work, a pebble got lodged in a hole in one of her worn-out shoes. Sometimes hardship can spring with unexpected blessings.

ONE MORE CHANCE: Gregory had been in the Army and served in Afghanistan. Homeless, dirty, and bedraggled, he secretly wondered if someone would give him one more chance. Sometimes things happen in life that can't be explained but they give you the chance to begin again.

THE ROAD TO NOWHERE: Newlyweds, Roman and Meara left their unexpected, broken-down car and started walking. The more they walked, the more things changed. This is what they had always wished for – an adventure before beginning a life together. They promised to be together always no matter what happened. They never expected this!

ONE MISTAKE: Hope had to put her big news on the back burner as she and her mother spent the rest of the afternoon preparing for her sister Esme's surprise birthday party. Esme was staying at her best friend's house until her mother called and told her to come home. An unexpected call changed the course of their day. Sometimes we make one mistake in life that can change everything!

This is Janice (J.E.) Spina's 50th book. She has published two mystery series of six books each, one for boys and the other for girls which is enjoyed by both boys and girls, and a fantasy series for young adults. She has published twenty-three stories for young children. I encourage you to purchase Janice Spina's books for Young Adults (18 and Up), teens and children of all ages.

Fantasy Series For Ages 13-17+.

Fantasy Series For Ages 13 Through Adult.

This is Book 1 of a fantasy series that will have six books in all. In this book, learn about the three children of King Gateskin and his wife, Queen Solinara. The children have had powers since they were quite young.

Serena was three years old when she learned of her power to move objects with her mind. Her brother, Simon, can fly and their sister, Catalina, can become invisible or blend into her surroundings. They live with their parents in Sovorotskina, the Land of Light.

With these powers comes responsibility. The children must try to use their powers for the common good and responsibly to help others. The three children befriend a Sprite named Spindle who accompanies them on their adventure. Along the way they meet up with their aunt and uncle, their mother's brother and his wife, Wizard Hotenfaran and Fairy Procelina. The group must travel into the evil land of Parotovina, Land of Darkness, to save King Gateskin, who was kidnapped, and rescue some of the descendants of their friends and fellow Sovorotskinans who were captured and taken by the Evil Ones. These descendants have been waiting a long time to be free to return to the villages of their ancestors.

The children have many trials and adventures along the way. Will they be able to rescue their father and fellow Sovorotskinans without endangering their own lives? Will the evil King Kaposkaran and his Queen Beregina stop Serena and her siblings from being successful or will they turn Serena and her siblings to their dark ways?

Awarded 5 Stars By The Editor At Book Marketing Global Network. With Powers Comes Responsibility!

'THE LEGEND OF THE TAKEN ONES' is book one of six planned in the 'Gateskin Chronicles'. Award-winning Author, Janice Spina, is writing this fantasy series for ages 13-17, but I can attest to the fact, adults will enjoy it too.

Serena Anya (age 14 is the heroine of story, sister to Simon Andolferan (age 12) and Catalina Leahna (age 10). Their mother is Solinara; Queen Fairy of Sovorotskina. Their father is Gateskin; King Wizard of Sovorotskina. Serena has the power to move objects with her mind. Simon can fly, and Catalina can become invisible. With these powers comes responsibility.

Sovorotskina (Land of Goodness & Light) was one of the villages that make up the Territory of Noella Province (later known as Votovia). The other villages are Votovia (Land of Magic & Mystery), Merona (Land of Peace & Harmony), Merlina (Land of Myths & Legends), Amora (Land of Faith & Love), and Parotovina (Land of Evil & Darkness).

I think to understand the story you must understand the 'Votovians'. The Votovians were feared by other villages that did not have fairies and wizards. The Votovian children were taught these five simple rules in Votovian School from the age of four. They used rhymes and simple language so that the youngest children could understand the rules.

Rule#1: Never use your powers to hurt anyone (not even to injure, move or hurt even flowers).

Rule#2: Help your fellow villagers out in any way you can.

Rule#4: Above all, protect the children. If danger comes fast, we will flee, and stay together using our powers only in an emergency.

Rule#5: Powers are to be used in emergency situations if agreed upon only by the governing council with final approval of the King and Queen of Votovia.

The Votovians were all hoping they would never have to use their powers. Their powers collectively were so strong they could destroy everyone in their path. They were a peace-loving people, and this did not come easy for them, but they would do whatever they had to do to protect their children and the children of their friends in Sovorotskina and any of the other neighboring villages.

I will let you discover on your own 'THE LEGEND OF THE TAKEN ONES'. I highly recommend Gateskin Chronicles, Book 1. Author Janice Spina always has valuable lessons in her storylines, which make her stories true 'Jems'. Janice has written 19 children's books and has multiple series, for ages 10 and up.

The adventures continue in this edition of Gateskin Chronicles. Many new characters and creatures are introduced. Spells abound with magic all around. Many visitors come to Sovorotskina looking for asylum from the evil King Kaposkaran of Parotovina. Will King Gateskin accept them all or even be able to trust them not to be spies for the evil King?

Serena uses her powers to assist when wolves come their way. Other creatures are also about and threaten the safety of the village.

Kaposkaran finds himself in trouble when his village is attacked by creatures. Will he turn to Gateskin for help? If he does, what will Gateskin do?

There is a spy about in Sovorotskina. Will the spy be discovered and somehow stopped from undermining the magic of King Gateskin and his family?

Awarded 5 Stars By The Editor At Book Marketing Global Network. Equally Enchanting As The Harry Potter Series.

'THE UNKNOWN TERRITORY' (Gateskin Chronicles Book 2) continues from 'The Legend of The Taken Ones' (Gateskin Chronicles Book 1). The Gateskin Chronicles can be read out of succession, but you will not want to miss any of this exciting, magical, fantasy series.

I believe ages 13+ will enjoy this series, as Award-winning author, Janice Spina has an amazing way of telling the story and capturing the attention and imagination of her readers. 'The Unknown Territory' takes you to the TERRITORY OF NOELLA PROVINCE, which is made up of six villages, with the Sea of Shakelle off the southern borders. New characters, new creatures, new dangers, and new spells abound.

This book opens with a new breed of wolves stoking fear among the villagers, as they search for new hunting grounds. King Gateskin (powerful wizard of Sovorotskina) reassures his people; the wolves are kind and friendly. The province is not without danger though. Sovorotskina (Land of Goodness & Light), Votovia (Land of Magic & Mystery), Merona (Land of Peace & Harmony), Merlina (Land of Myths & Legends), and Amora (Land of Faith & Love), all had reason to fear Parotovina (Land of Evil & Darkness). I decided to share this quote so you will understand the true danger that exists for the TERRITORY OF NOELLA PROVINCE.

...King Gateskin created a Channel Spell to open a connection to all the other villages except Parotovina. He kept that window closed. Once he had all the rulers of the villages virtually in his Meeting Room, he called the meeting to order.

...He explained what had happened in the Village of Parotovina and the dangers they faced from the roaming Catlings.

... "We need to help Parotovina. I know all of you have had unfavorable treatment by King Kaposkaran and his guards, and so have I. But we cannot let these people suffer like this. We have to do something."

... "Will we have to use dark magic to take out these creatures, King Gateskin?" King Cavelan asked.

... "Never! We have to try something else. Please let's use first names only here. We are all rulers and don't need to use the pomp and circumstance in these serious times."

... "I agree, Gateskin," Cavelan said.

...Noderan of the Village of Amora asked, "Do you have something in mind, Gateskin?"

... "Well, I think I can come up with a few spells with the help of all of you and my Wizards. Please let me introduce you to the former Parotovinian Wizards."

...Gateskin spread his hands across the table and pointed out the four Wizards to the rulers. They all nodded and waited for more information about what they would be doing.

It is up to you to discover. Who is the spy in Sovorotskina? Will the spy be discovered and somehow stopped from undermining the magic of King Gateskin and his family?

'The Gateskin Chronicles' will take you on a magical journey, equally enchanting as the Harry Potter series. Once you begin, you will anxiously wait for the next book to be released.

King Gateskin must be vigilant to protect his land and people when another creature threatens to cause harm. He fears for his land when visitors come asking about the lost Medallion which he knows is still buried somewhere in his village of Sovorotskina.

Some of these visitors from a far-off island come in peace while another threatens the safety of Noella Province with her Dark Magic. The King must enlist all the help he can muster to protect not only his village but all of Noella Province from peril.

King Kaposkaran of Parotovina once again is a nuisance rather than a help to the other rulers of the lands in the province. He is only concerned about his own problems. Will King Kaposkaran be a hindrance or a way for the evil to enter Noella Province once again? Will King Gateskin be able to conjure up enough magic to save them all?

Awarded 5 Stars By The Editor At Book Marketing Global Network. The Search For The Medallion Puts Every Villager In Danger Of Dark Magic!

'SEARCH FOR THE MEDALLION' (Gateskin Chronicles Book 3) continues in this exciting, magical, fantasy series for ages 13-17+. Readers will find the 'Map Of Territory Of Noella Province'. The 'Characters List' in each book helps because the author brings in new characters.

Book three finds King Gateskin of Sovorotskina opening the Channel Spell to conference with the other rulers of the neighboring villages. Panic is setting in as a dangerous moss is creeping into the villages which is putting livestock and others at serious risk. This is not the only danger facing King Gateskin as he struggles to protect his village. Equally as distressing as the creeping moss to King Gateskin are strangers and visitors searching his village for the allusive Medallion that everyone is talking about.

"Gateskin rounded up every villager who had any kind of power and then stopped by to see Spindle and Mitteran to explain what needed to be done. "You are to oversee the digging and search for the Medallion. Meet the villagers who are coming from the other lands to help and get them started in plots assigned on the map." Gateskin handed the map to them. "I will be meeting in my conference room with my Wizards and others who I will be sending your way soon."

The King then led the villagers with powers to his home and seated everyone before beginning his instructions. He had also summoned his Wizards to come right away. They were there in a split second after his summons and stood along the side of the conference room walls until needed.

Gateskin gazed at all the people who were gathered there and sighed. "There is much to be done. We must find the Medallion before a person from the island of Dragonaria finds it and uses it to increase her Dark Magic."

Can enough magic be conjured up to save Sovorotskina and all the other villages?

Make sure to read Gateskin Chronicles Book One through Three of this series, so you will be ready for even more adventure, magic and fantasy coming in book four. Check out all the 'Jems Books' (for all ages) by Author Janice Spina.

The adventures continue with dragons, creatures, and more magic. The Medallion is uncovered and something else is discovered that may have escaped from this box.

There will be more difficulties with the Quintaroons who plan something unexpected. Spindle, King Gateskin's Head Guard, has his work cut out for him when he must keep an eye on not only the Quintaroons but also King Kaposkaran who is up to his usual evil deeds. Also, the dragons and their mistresses have returned with problems of their own on Dragonaria that will test even the power of King Gateskin.

Awarded 5 Stars By The Editor At Book Marketing Global Network. The Dragon Ladies Are Back and Danger Is Coming To Sovorotskina!

This fantasy series is written primarily for ages 13-17, but adults who are young at heart, are also enjoying the 'Gateskin Chronicles' by Janice Spina. I find this series to be equally, if not more enchanting, as the 'Harry Potter' series. Don't forget to study the 'Map Of Territory Of Noella Province' and the 'Characters List' in each book, because the author brings in new characters.

Let's recap and move forward: In 'The Legend Of The Taken Ones' (Gateskin Chronicles Book One) we meet Serena Anya (age 14 is the heroine of story, sister to Simon Andolferan (age 12) and Catalina Leahna (age 10). Their mother is Solinara; Queen Fairy of Sovorotskina. Their father is Gateskin; King Wizard of Sovorotskina. Serena has the power to move objects with her mind. Simon can fly, and Catalina can become invisible. Sovorotskina (Land of Goodness & Light) was one of the villages that make up the Territory of Noella Province (later known as Votovia). The Votovians were feared by other villages that did not have fairies and wizards. The Votovians were peace-loving people, but they had the power to do whatever they had to do to protect their children and neighboring villages. Because of their powers, their children were taught five simple rules in Votovian School from the age of four. These rules would guide their lives and teach them "with powers comes responsibility".

In 'The Unknown Territory' (Gateskin Chronicles Book Two) the book opens with a new breed of wolves stoking fear among the villagers, as they search for new hunting grounds. King Gateskin (powerful wizard of Sovorotskina) reassures his people; the wolves are kind and friendly. The province is not without danger though. King Gateskin created a 'Channel Spell' to open a connection to all the other villages except Parotovina. He kept that window closed.

In 'Search For The Medallion' (Gateskin Chronicles Book 3) finds King Gateskin of Sovorotskina opening the Channel Spell to conference with the other rulers of the neighboring villages. Panic is setting in as a dangerous moss is creeping into the villages which is putting livestock and others at serious risk. This is not the only danger facing King Gateskin as he struggles to protect his village. Equally as distressing as the creeping moss to King Gateskin are strangers and visitors searching his village for the allusive Medallion that everyone is talking about.

Now, the 'Return Of The Dragons' (Gateskin Chronicles Book 4) is finally here, the adventures with dragons, creatures, and more magic continue. King Gateskin is on alert when Spindle (his head guard) sends him a message through his mind that the dragon ladies are back. That's not all. Things are brewing in Parotovina and King Kaposkaran is up to no good. The Sprites gather high in the treetops and sing. Their songs ring through the forest as a warning to all that danger is coming to Sovorotskina. King Gateskin is preparing for the problems ahead. He knows his training of the dragons is in danger, but that is not all. Enjoy this book and stay tuned for book five in this series!

Book 5 of 5: Gateskin Chronicles

King Gateskin's powers are tested in this epic fantasy series. There are some surprises with the dragons. Botular is trouble as usual, and Dragonaria discovers a secret that King Gateskin did not want revealed yet.

There is magic, mayhem, and danger in each chapter to keep readers engrossed. The King's children use their powers not always in a smart way and put themselves at risk.

The chest is a problem with the Wizards who are concerned that there is more to the beams of light than first discovered. Will the evil wizard return to claim the chest that holds the Medallion and possibly something else?

Awarded 5 Stars By The Editor At Book Marketing Global Network. 'The Powers Of King Gateskin' (Gateskin Chronicles Book 5) by Janice Spina. In Book 5 there are wizards, Catlings (catlike creatures), Rabbineles (creatures created by Queen Solinara and Hotenfaran to feed the wolves and fulfill the need of the wolves to hunt and forage for food). Don't forget to study the 'Map Of Territory Of Noella Province' and the 'Characters List' in each book, because the author brings in new characters. Become knowledgeable of village rulers, places, rivers and forests. Review the Quintaroon's powers and weaknesses. Learn the spells necessary for survival, get to know the farm animals, "evil ones", "taken ones", descendants of the "taken ones". Our review for Book 5 is listed below.

Dedication: The 'Gateskin Chronicles' by Janice Spina is dedicated to all who love magic, mystery, fantasy and dragons. This fantasy series is written primarily for ages 15-17 but adults who are young at heart, are also enjoying this series. I find this series to be equally, if not more enchanting, as the 'Harry Potter' series.

Let's Recap Books 1-4 In The 'Gateskin Chronicles': In 'The Legend Of The Taken Ones' (Book One) we meet Serena Anya (age 14 is the heroine of story, sister to Simon Andolferan (age 12) and Catalina Leahna (age 10). Their mother is Solinara; Queen Fairy of Sovorotskina. Their father is Gateskin; King Wizard of Sovorotskina. Serena has the power to move objects with her mind. Simon can fly, and Catalina can become invisible. Sovorotskina (Land of Goodness & Light) was one of the villages that make up the Territory of Noella Province (later known as Votovia). The Votovians were feared by other villages that did not have fairies and wizards. The Votovians were peace-loving people, but they had the power to do whatever they had to do to protect their children and neighboring villages. Because of their powers, their children were taught five simple rules in Votovian School from the age of four. These rules would guide their lives and teach them “with powers comes responsibility”.

‘The Unknown Territory’ (Book Two): The book opens with a new breed of wolves striking fear among the villagers, as they search for new hunting grounds. King Gateskin (powerful wizard of Sovorotskina) reassures his people; the wolves are kind and friendly. The province is not without danger though. King Gateskin created a ‘Channel Spell’ to open a connection to all the other villages except Parotovina. He kept that window closed.

‘Search For The Medallion’ (Book 3): Finds King Gateskin of Sovorotskina opening the Channel Spell to conference with the other rulers of the neighboring villages. Panic is setting in as a dangerous moss is creeping into the villages which is putting livestock and others at serious risk. This is not the only danger facing King Gateskin as he struggles to protect his village. Equally as distressing as the creeping moss to King Gateskin are strangers and visitors searching his village for the allusive Medallion that everyone is talking about.

‘Return Of The Dragons’ (Book 4): The adventures with dragons, creatures, and more magic continue. King Gateskin is alerted when Spindle (his head guard) sends him a message through his mind that the dragon ladies are back. That’s not all. Things are brewing in Parotovina and King Kaposkaran is up to no good. The Sprites gather high in the treetops and sing. Their songs ring through the forest as a warning to all that danger is coming to Sovorotskina. King Gateskin is preparing for the problems ahead. He knows his training of the dragons is in danger, but that is not all.

‘The Powers Of King Gateskin’ (Book 5): King Wizard Gateskin rules in the Land of Goodness & Light. His powers include the capability to summon other wizards instantly. He commands the wizards and defends his land against threats, enemy spies, wolves and dark creatures. These creatures roam freely in the woods of Parotovina. They are growing larger and stronger each day, existing on small animals and birds, or anything else that they could fit inside their mouths. Apprehension is growing as these creatures will soon venture beyond the woods of Parotovina looking for larger prey. There are always surprises with the dragons, especially as new dragonets hatch. The King’s wizards continually guard the chest with the Medallion inside; they fear the evil wizard will show up and claim the chest as his. The wizards report to the King that something unusual is occurring around the chest. Should they be concerned? Find out more as you read and watch for Book 6 coming later this year or 2027.

Chapter Book With Six Stories For Children Ages 5-8 Or Younger

2025 Silver Medal Winner From Mom's Choice Awards

This is a children's book with six stories for ages 5-8. Each story is a stand-alone story. Children will read about two little sisters, two young boys, a boy and a toad, rabbits, a bluebird, and a mouse and a piece of cheese.

They are feel-good stories that children will want to read again and again. One story will make children laugh out loud while others will teach them important life lessons about kindness to others, friends and family matter, believe in yourself, and you can do anything if you just try.

Editorial Reviews: Family and friends is a chapter book with six stories written in rhyme with life lessons for children ages 5-8 or younger. These stories will delight and engage children with the rhythmic verses and colorful illustrations. Children will learn important life lessons and the value of family and friends and want to read these stories again and again.

From The Author: This book is dedicated to two little girls I met while dining at a local restaurant. They captured my heart when I spoke with them. When I saw one crying I offered them a book mark. It stopped the tears as they listened to me tell them that I would write a story just for them if they like to read. They answered, 'Yes.' The first story is for them.

All the other stories are for children everywhere who have ever had trouble with bullies, needed a friend, wanted to be accepted, and those who wanted to succeed but were afraid to do so.

From The Back Cover: This is a children's book with six stories for ages 5-8. Each story is a stand-alone story. Children will read about two little sisters, two young boys, a boy and a toad, rabbits, a bluebird, and a mouse and a piece of cheese.

They are feel-good stories that children will want to read again and again. One story will make children laugh out loud while others will teach them important life lessons about kindness to others, friends and family matter, believe in yourself, and you can do anything if you just try.

Awarded 5 Stars By The Editor At Book Marketing Global Network. 'FAMILY AND FRIENDS: Tales For Children' by Janice Spina.

Award Winning Author Janice Spina shares the importance of family and friends for children of all ages. What impressed me was her dedication to the two little girls that she met, who love to read, so she promised to write them a new book about friends. She dedicates all her 'Jembooks' to children who love to read and the parents/grandparents who take the time to enjoy books with the children in their lives.

Beautiful Book Cover Design and one illustration at the beginning of each Chapter by John Spina (Illustrator). I encourage you to purchase this book and all the 'Jembooks' for your children, grandchildren, classrooms, libraries and all the places where children and parents gather.

I quote a snippet about each chapter:

AMELIA AND CASSANDRA: SISTERS AND FRIENDS: This story was dedicated to two little girls I met while dining at a local restaurant. They were so adorable when I interacted with them. I promised to write a story just for them to share since they told me they love to read. I hope they enjoy this story.

MATEO AND EIDEN: This story was written for all young boys who have ever been bullied. A true friend is someone who stands by you in good times and in bad. Stay strong and don't let others put you down.

A BOY AND A TOAD: This was written for all young boys who love toads. Being kind to animals is what we all must do. Also, friends can be whatever you choose whether an animal or a human.

RABBITS IN THE WOODS: Family must always stick together in good times and in bad. Watch over your family and keep them safe.

THE SAD BLUEBIRD: This story was written for anyone who sees someone in need. It's important to always be kind even to those who are not kind in return. They may become kinder in the end.

THE MOUSE AND THE TASTY BUT SMELLY CHEESE: This was written for anyone who has tried to succeed and failed. We must always pick ourselves up again and keep trying as this little mouse did even if the cheese is smelly. I hope readers had a good laugh over this as you read the cadence with tasty but smelly cheese. I did as I wrote it!

Janice Spina is a retired administrative secretary from a public school system in Massachusetts. This is the 48th book Janice has published. Branyrd The Angel Series by Janice (J.E.) Spina.
(Reading Age: 15-18+ Years)

"Not A Children's Book"
(Reading Age: 18+)

Book 1 of 1: Branyrd The Angel Series.

Branyrd is a different kind of angel. She has a difficult time being understood because of her habit of getting into all kinds of trouble and for her unacceptable language. Angels are not supposed to swear.

This angel must earn levels to be accepted by the LORD. She is presently at Angel Fourth Class and must ascend to Angel First Class in order to be given a mission to travel to Earth to help a human in trouble.

Once she reaches Angel First Class, she is given a mission and travels to Earth to help a battered woman and her child. Since she is so new to the ways on Earth, Branyrd is accompanied by her Guardian Angel Benedicto, Angel First Class on High, who guides and advises her.

Branyrd doesn't know what she will do or how she will complete this mission. She must show her strengths and succeed, or she may be demoted. What she finds on Earth is not what she expected. It certainly is nothing like Heaven. There are dangerous people but also those who she will miss dearly when she must leave.

Awarded 5 Stars By The Editor At Book Marketing Global Network. Endearing Story, About A Misunderstood Angel On A Mission.

Branyrd is Angel Fourth Class, working to advance levels needed, to be acknowledged by the Lord.

Benedicto is Guardian Angel First Class. He is assigned to accompany and mentor Branyrd, when she is finally given her first assignment to Earth.

Branyrd finds Earth to be a strange place, filled with unusual customs, and dangerous people. Branyrd's mission is to help Maggie Preston and her young daughter, Annie. When Maggie's husband Nate, becomes involved with the White Stag Gang, he and his family are in grave danger. Can Branyrd overcome her own issues to complete her earthy mission?

Here is what Maggie is thinking while she clears tables at the diner where she works (Chapter 27): "She was grateful for her new friend's help. Branyrd was truly sent from Heaven, she mused and chuckled to herself. Annie kept telling her that Branyrd was a real angel who didn't have wings yet. Her daughter had such an imagination."

As someone who has seen two angels here on earth, I found this story captivating.

Author J. E. Spina shares this: "This is the first book in this series about an angel. I infused some comedy into this sometimes-serious story. It deals with many issues that are evident in our world today. I dedicate this book to all who believe in angels around us. I think at the conclusion of this book those unbelievers may become believers too."

This new 'Branyrd the Angel Series' is paranormal fiction. This series is written for young adults ages 18+. Watch for more books in this series coming over the new few years. All J. E. (Janice) Spina's books are available on Amazon and Barnes & Noble.

“Not A Children's Book”

Book 2 of 2: Branyrd The Angel Series.

Branyrd goes on another mission to Earth, this time she has been enlisted to help a homeless vet and his young son. The Angel goes out of her way to put things right for Lucas and his son, Ezra. She finds it difficult through with the influx of empathic messages and feelings that threaten to overload her. Will she be able to help Lucas get his family back together and find his way to recovery after suffering from PTSD?

Branyrd is a funny, sweet, strong, resilient, and capable Angel who is not afraid to take on the toughest tasks, who strives to pave the way for those in need, who creates change and makes a difference in the lives of others that enables them to find their way forward to a good life.

When Branyrd visits a homeless community, she meets with the mayor to work out a plan to solve the problems the homeless have there. Will others stop her from helping those in need? Will Benedicto be there in case she needs his intervention? Will Branyrd be able to break free from the connections she has made when it is time for her to leave Earth and return to Heaven?

Awarded 5 Stars By The Editor At Book Marketing Global Network. 5-Stars For Mission Of Mercy, Book Two In Branyrd The Angel Series.

In book one (The Misunderstood Angel), we learned Branyrd is a different kind of angel. She has earned Angel First Class and is given missions to travel to Earth to help humans in trouble. In this book Branyrd was assigned to help a battered woman and her child.

In book two (Mission of Mercy), Branyrd begins a second assignment to earth, accompanied by her Guardian Angel Benedicto, Angel First Class on High, who guides and advises her. The mission assignment is to help a homeless vet named Lucas, who suffers from PTSD, and his young son, Ezra.

As the story unfolds, it is fascinating to see what solutions Branyrd comes up with to solve a very serious homeless crisis. Branyrd must convince the community and those in authority that homelessness can be solved. She must get the businesses in the vicinity to buy into her plan. At the same time, she needs to convince the homeless population they are not powerless.

One of her first tasks is to meet with the city mayor. Each step forward is met with resistance from others. Her determination is fierce, and her Guardian Angel Benedicto is not far away, in case she needs his intervention. Will she be able to complete her task on time?

In both books, I am touched by Branyrd's ability to form a special bond with humans. In heaven angels are unable to cry, but on earth they discover intense emotions. In book one it was hard for Branyrd to leave the humans she helped. Will her bond to Lucas, especially young Ezra, make it more difficult for her to leave earth when her mission is complete?

I encourage older teens and adults to read both books in this paranormal fantasy. Author J.E. (Janice) Spina is an amazing storyteller. Elements of each story is serious with real life scenarios, yet Janice weaves in a little humor and makes it easy to connect with all the characters. I am looking forward to the next installment in this series.

Author J.E. Spina aka Janice Spina is an award-winning author of books for all ages ranging from children to adults. She has 40+ published books and her husband John, is her illustrator and cover creator.

"Not A Children's Book"
(Reading Age: 18+)

Book 3 of 3: Branyrd The Angel Series.

Branyrd is on another mission which may be the toughest one so far. She has been sent to a troubled island in the South Pacific that is being attacked by the fellow islands in the archipelago. Her mission is to rescue some children from an orphanage during the attacks.

She is escorted, once again, by her Guardian Angel, Benedicto, who is there as counsel and aide as she completes her mission. What Branyrd finds there is devastation and heartbreak as she tackles the mission, this time one of love for the children and the rest of the islanders who have lost family and homes.

There are many obstacles that stand in her way and danger for the children and others as she must rescue not only them, but also another island that is in danger of sinking.

Awarded 5 Stars By The Editor At Book Marketing Global Network. Divinely Inspired For Such Times As These!

In book one (The Misunderstood Angel), we learned Branyrd is a different kind of angel. She has earned Angel First Class and is given missions to travel to Earth to help humans in trouble. In this book Branyrd was assigned to help a battered woman and her child.

In book two (Mission of Mercy), Branyrd begins a second assignment to earth, accompanied by her Guardian Angel Benedicto, Angel First Class on High, who guides and advises her. The mission assignment is to help a homeless vet named Lucas, who suffers from PTSD, and his young son, Ezra.

Now in book three (Mission of Love), Branyrd is sent to earth while bombs are falling on a small island. This will be her biggest challenge yet. This story will tug at your heartstrings, given the wars going on in our world today. You will see the desperate circumstances, hear the cries for help and read the prayers ascending to heaven. You will see the love and compassion of Branyrd Angel First Class. You will not want to miss the Lord's reaction to Branyrd when she returns to heaven after completing her earthly mission.

I am convinced that this fiction 'Branyrd the Angel Series' is divinely inspired for such times as these! Whether you believe in angels or question their existence, Branyrd Angel First Class will cut to your core, send chills up your spine and cause you to think with your mind, heart and soul.

I encourage you to read Janice (J. E.) Spina's 'Branyrd the Angel Series'. Pass it along to others and put this series on your year-round gift-giving book list.

“Not A Children's Book”
(Reading Age: 18+)

Book 4 of 4: Branyrd The Angel Series.

Branyrd must face evil on Earth in this latest book. The LORD instructs her to give Hope to the people who are suffering from injustice, persecution, and evil factions that force them from their homes. The Angel must help those who are preyed upon, others who are straying from good, and still others who are lost.

Benedicto, her Guardian Angel, will be her constant companion during this tough mission and support her on her path of leading all peoples to GOD.

Awarded 5 Stars By The Editor At Book Marketing Global Network. Hope Is The Expectation And Desire For What Comes Next!

When I started reading 'Branyrd The Angel' Series, I had no idea it would capture my heart in the way that it has. I invite you to purchase this series if you haven't already, read 'Mission of Hope' as each book in this series stands alone. I encourage you to give this series as a gift to someone who needs hope.

In book one (The Misunderstood Angel), we learned Branyrd is a different kind of angel. She has earned Angel First Class and is given missions to travel to Earth to help humans in trouble. In this book Branyrd was assigned to help a battered woman and her child.

In book two (Mission of Mercy), Branyrd begins a second assignment to earth, accompanied by her Guardian Angel Benedicto, Angel First Class on High, who guides and advises her. The mission assignment is to help a homeless vet named Lucas, who suffers from PTSD, and his young son, Ezra.

In book three (Mission of Love), Branyrd is sent to earth while bombs are falling on a small island. This will be her biggest challenge yet. This story will tug at your heartstrings, given the wars going on in our world today. You will see the desperate circumstances, hear the cries for help and read the prayers ascending to heaven. You will see the love and compassion of Branyrd Angel First Class. You will not want to miss the Lord's reaction to Branyrd when she returns to heaven after completing her earthly mission.

Now in book four (Mission of Hope), First Class Angel Branyrd with Benedicto (Guardian Angel on High) are sent to earth on a multi-layered mission, as the earth erupts in unrest, criminal factions and wars that threaten all of humanity. Even repentant fallen angels are given assignments in hopes of gaining entry back into heaven. You will see that many events in 'Mission of Hope, mirror current events. That is the genius of Author J. E. Spina. She writes with compelling details and weaves comedy into the story line to lighten the reader's load. If Author J. E. Spina can't become a superhero herself and solve the world's crushing injustices, she can send in a fictional Angel with God's blessing to heal our people, unite our leaders, bring peace and restoration to our world.

The author states “things in this book that cannot be explained to younger children, making this suitable for ages 15+.” The author dedicates this series “to all who believe in Angels around us”. I am counting the days until this unforgettable Angel, with golden wings, is given her next earthly mission.

Janice Spina, who also writes under the name J. E. Spina, has 47 published books. Her ‘Jems Books’ include 22 children’s stories for young children, two mystery series for middle-graders and preteens. She has written a fantasy series with more to come for YA. Janice has published nine novels and a short story collection for 18+.
